At the same time detectives were searching the city for two men, both of whom recently escaped from the Mansfield Reformatory on the strength of a partial identification of police photographs of the robbers.

THE FAMOUS KREMLIN, MOSCOW, WHERE HEAVY FIGHTING TOOK PLACE

THE KREMLIN.

The famous Kremlin, at Moscow, where, according to dispatches from Russia, much fighting in the Bolshevik revolt centered. Various conflicting reports were first to the effect that the Kerensky forces in Moscow had been trapped in the Kremlin and later to the effect that the Bolshevik revolutionists were making their last stand there. There is no doubt that much heavy fighting took place about the ancient buildings, once the seat of government of the Tartar Czars.

Sweeping Over the First and Second Line Trenches of the Germans, to a Depth of More Than Six Miles in an Irristible Attack of Artillery, Tank and Infantry, the Great Hindenburg Line is Crushed and Broken.

GERMANS UNABLE TO CHECK ATTACK ARE FORCED FROM VALUED POSITIONS

Whole German Line From St. Quentin to the Scarpe River Gives Way and a Wedge is Driven in Which May Cause the Collapse of the Whole Western Defense of the Kaiser.

London, November 21.—(Associated Press Cable)—The Hindenburg line has been broken to a depth of four to five miles. British troops stormed the first system of the Hindenburg line defenses on the whole front between St. Quentin and the Scarpe river.

British infantry and tanks pressed on and captured the second system of defenses, over a mile beyond. Several thousand prisoners have been taken.

The British also fought their way through Couillet woods. Lieutenant General Sir Julian Byng is in command of the attacking army.

The whole German line west of the canal Dunorde to the Bapume-Cambria road has been captured. From St. Quentin to the Scarpe is 32 miles.

FAILURE OF THE BOCHE TO VENTURE INTO "NO MAN'S LAND" PREVENTED AMERICANS FROM MAKING WHOLESALE CAPTURES

With the American Army in France, November 20.—(Associated Press Cable)—Only the fact that the Germans failed to venture into "no man's land" saved them from an American surprise. One hundred and sixty men of the first battalion to enter the trenches for a week were given special training, and after being transported to the front crawled across "no man's land" and took positions in front of and in the German wire entanglements, where the enemy had come out every night.

Each man had been trained in a special task and the entire unit had rehearsed the part it had intended to play under conditions similar to that in front of the German line. The Americans reached the position soon after dark and remained all night, but not a German appeared along the line.

HINDENBURG SUPPORT LINES CAPTURED

The second system of German defenses captured by the British is known as the Hindenburg support line. The British captured Benazis, Lameau Woods, La Vacquerie, the defense known as Welsh ridge, and Ribecourt village. Their operations are continuing.

PRETENTIOUS MOVE

The British movement in its early stages gives the appearance of being the most ambitious that has been undertaken by them on the western front since the creation of their new army gave them the power to strike effective blows.

The attack came almost without warning. The only symptoms being a series of somewhat elaborate trench raids.

THE AMERICAN WHO ARRESTED A QUEEN

CAPT. PAUL SMITH.

Captain Paul Smith Fortieth U. S. V., has the distinction of being the only American to ever arrest a Queen. On January 16, 1895, Captain Smith, then a sergeant in the army of the Provisional Government of Hawaii under the direction of President Sanford B. Dole, arrested Queen Liliuokalani, lately deceased, and held her prisoner in Iolani Palace for eight months, during which time she was tried and convicted of treason and sentenced to pay a fine of $5,000 and serve five years at hard labor. After a year in prison she was given a full pardon.

Captain Smith served with the American army in the Philippines, receiving several medals and honorable mention for bravery.

CARLTON COSS IS ARRESTED FOR BURGLARY

Former Resident Is Nabbed in Cincinnati—Is Implicated in Akron Robbery, for Which Ronald Ballard Is Doing Time—Suspected of Other Crimes—Good Work of Sheriff Jones.

Sheriff Henry W. Jones is in receipt of word from Cincinnati to the effect that Carlton Coss, a young man who formerly resided in this city and who was not known to the police, is being held in the Hamilton county jail awaiting action of the grand jury on a charge of burglary and larceny.

With the arrest of Coss the lid is lifted from a story of more than passing interest, and which reflects great credit upon Sheriff Jones who furnished information which led to the arrest of Coss and to Ronald Ballard, also formerly of this city, and who is now doing time in the Ohio penitentiary for robbing a saloonkeeper in Akron, Ohio.

It was on the 11th of last January that the Akron saloonkeeper was apprehended, and a day or two later, after having read of the robbery and suspecting Ballard and Coss of being the principals, Sheriff Jones succeeded in unearthing first hand information in this city which implicated the pair and eventually led to their arrest.

The young man had stopped at the Arlington Hotel in this city, where they registered under assumed names, and while here were overheard telling of the Akron job.

Sheriff Jones communicated with the Akron authorities, and warrants were obtained for the arrest of the young men. About the same time Sheriff Jones obtained information that implicated Coss in the robbery of the Nisley shoe store in Springfield and for which crime Darrell Devore is now doing time in Mansfield.

Receiving a tip that Ballard was in Springfield, Sheriff Jones informed the proper authorities for the young man's arrest, and he was taken back to Akron to face the music. He was identified, admitted the crime, and in the confession is said to have declared Coss was the young man who assisted him.

Coss has been evading arrest in this part of Ohio for some time, and is said to have used many schemes to escape arrest, including his appearance in Springfield as a farmer boy.

He eluded arrest until a few days ago when the Cincinnati authorities who had been on the lookout for him for some time, picked him up on a burglary and larceny charge, and he is still in the Hamilton county jail. The young man is suspected of knowing something of the robbery of the Chamberlain store in Milledgeville, when a safe was blown and quite a sum of money obtained.

CHRISTMAS PACKETS FOR BOYS IN CAMP

Christmas packets must soon be on the way if they are to reach the various camps all over the country in time to insure boys of their usual Christmas remembrance.

Thousands of Christmas packages are already on the way to France and it would be a pitiable thing if any American soldier or sailor, at home or abroad, failed to receive a packet on Christmas morning.

Many kind-hearted individuals who have no relatives of their own in military service have sought and found the names of enlisted boys comparatively friendless and have sent them Christmas packets.

Some of the most complete packages, beautifully packed boxes of necessary articles, such as khaki handkerchiefs, wool socks, trench mirrors, toilet articles, as well as Christmas sweets, were made up and sent to members of Company M in France, by members of the force of The Frank L. Stutson Company, and employees of other stores may feel the impulse to send similar boxes to the boys similarly situated in the camps in this country.

With Christmas only a month away and camp conditions subject to change Christmas packets should be sent without delay.

HOG CHOLERA IN HIGHLAND COUNTY

County Agent Thomas B. Foster, of Highland county, has sounded a warning to the farmers of Highland against the ravages of hog cholera which is beginning to appear in increased amount in that county.

In part Mr. Foster says: "The enemy is in our midst; we must fight it tooth and nail. After a season comparatively free from this scourge hog cholera is now breaking out in several parts of our county. Sixteen cases have been reported to the county agent in the past week. It looks like trouble ahead for hog raisers next year.

"The only way to fight is for all to work together. If you have it, post your farm and warn your neighbors. Watch your hogs! Keep dogs and trespassers off. If you have a sick hog on your place, isolate it at once and call a veterinarian or the county agent and they will try to help you.

"THE COUNTY AGENT ADVISES EVERY FARMER TO HAVE HIS FALL PIGS TREATED. This will be cheap insurance against losses next year. Do not wait until the pigs are sick and it is too late. Now is the time while they are small."

CHAS. W. PORTER SAFE IN FRANCE

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Porter, corner North and Paint streets, Tuesday evening received a cablegram from their son, Charles Wallace Porter from Paris, France, stating that he was well.

Mr. Porter, who has been in Washington, D. C., for the past few years, enlisted in an American Engineering Corps, and departed for France some three weeks ago, and the cablegram bearing the two words "Safe, well," was a welcome message indeed to the anxious parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter have two sons in the service, their younger son, Howard, being at Camp Sherman.

FRITZ IS RAPIDLY LOSING MORALE DECLARE BRITISH

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Liverpool, November 15—Evidence that the German commanders are well aware that the German army is deteriorating and that they have to try to keep it together by terrifying their troops is given in a letter written by an officer of a Liverpool regiment to one of the local newspapers. Expressing the opinion that the "collapse of the Germans will come soon" he said:

"The best cure for pessimism would be a few days in the front-line trenches. There are no pessimists here except among the German prisoners.

"The last time our battalion was in action we took quite a number of prisoners, and they were a dismal lot. One non-commissioned officer with whom I spoke told me that large numbers of the Germans simply will not face our fire but refuse to attack. His own company had been under fire for near five days, and at last they had signed a round-robin to the company commander to say that they could not stay any longer. Two of the ringleaders were arrested with the idea of making an example of them, but their comrades demanded their release with such energy that the officers had to give way. Later on the men repeated their demand to be taken out of the front line. The officers ordered them back to duty, but the men refused. The officers threatened the soldiers, who replied by killing all but four of the officers and marching over to the British lines to surrender.

"When this particular battalion was moved up against the British, the men had to be bullied into fighting by being sent into action in front of a moving barrage, which meant certain death to all who lagged behind.

"On another occasion recently, our Liverpool regiment had a fierce fight which ended up with a strange experience. We had heavily engaged and driven off in panic some Germans who had been holding a strong position. Moving on to the next objective, another party of the enemy appeared. We felt certain that we were in for a rough experience, but the truth was that this bunch wanted to surrender badly, and they had made a pretense of advancing to a counterattack with the object of getting near enough to us to be sure of protection from their own officers.

"When the German command found out what had happened, they sent forward a great body of reserves with order to recapture our prisoners. Heavy gunfire rained on us, of which the prisoners got a good share. They begged us hard to save them, and we did all we could. But at one stage we were nearly caught, when the enemy suddenly turned on a party of liquid fire experts. Fortunately we were alert and charged at once, capturing the whole liquid fire outfit. There ensued a terrible row between the earlier prisoners and the men we had taken with the liquid fire outfit. The first prisoners wanted to kill the liquid fire men. We had our hands full getting them all back."

UNDERTAKER GETS $2,000 DAMAGES

W. E. Lukins, undertaker of London, Ohio, was recently awarded $2,000 damages by the B. & O. railroad for injuries sustained on December 26, 1916, when his funeral car was struck by a B. & O. train near Derby, and Rev. Mrs. Cooper, widow of the deceased minister, recently was awarded $8,500 by the B. & O.

WOWIE! THIS MAN LEARNS A LESSON

(Associated Press Correspondence) London, November 15—The severest penalty yet given for violation of the Farm Cultivation acts has just been administered to Alfred White, a farmer of Maidstone. He was ordered by the authorities to cut down his acreage of hops by one-half. He paid no attention to the order, declaring he would make a profit of $50,000 out of the hops, and so could well afford to pay a substantial fine. The courts fined him only $1,000, but ordered the forfeiture of the entire crop of hops and added a sentence of two months in prison.

SAYS FRIENDS SEE BENEFITS TANLAC GAVE

Didn't Feel Like Going to Work Mornings Before He Took Tonic—Sleeps Good and Feels Fine Now.

Tony Weber, 1214 Ellis street, Cummins, employed by the J. H. Day Company, for the last four years, said he didn't feel like going to work in mornings before he took Tanlac.

"I would just seem like every bit of my energy had left," Mr. Weber said. "In through the day I would have a tired, achy feeling all over my body. My stomach was out of order, too, before I took Tanlac. I could hardly eat solid foods at all, and I absolutely couldn't eat meat. Everything I ate soured on my stomach and formed gas. I bloated badly and belched nearly all the time.

"Of all the medicines I've tried Tanlac is the best. The way it has helped me is wonderful. I can eat meat or any thing else I want now without a bit of trouble afterward. I can sleep as sound as a rock at night now, too, and I feel fine.

"All the boys at the Day Company's place are remarking about how much better I am. I recommend Tanlac for others because I feel it is a sort of duty to tell others about a medicine that can help a person so much."

If you are not feeling right get Tanlac today at Blackmer & Tanquary's drug store, Frank Christopher's drug store or C. S. Haver's drug store. Advt.

PRINCE OF WIED STILL HOPEFUL

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Rotterdam, Netherlands, November 15.—Prince William zu Wied, the former Prince of Albania, has by no means given up hopes of regaining the realm which he ruled over for so short, and troubled a period immediately prior to the great European conflagration.

His latest step has been to send a memorial to the German federal princes, wherein he deals at length with the development of Albanian affairs and protests against the protectorate of Albania proclaimed by Italy. He argues that an independent Albania offers the securest basis for a lasting peace in the Balkans, and that it is therefore in the interests of Germany and Austria. Further, Prince William asserts his own rights to the throne of Albania.

Social and Personal

The Browning Club met on Tuesday evening with the President, Mrs. Martha Mark, presiding. As there was no business, a full evening was given to the attractive program, presented under direction of Mrs. Elmer Mark, chairman of the Literature Department.

Miss Gertrude Fowler read an excellent paper on George W. Curtis, who was "designed by nature for a literary career." His personality exemplified the very ideal of the university man, although he was without a methodical education. He read, studied, and traveled, and was ready for a literary career at twenty.

His connection with Harper's Weekly gave him the opportunity to speak to the American people in his intimate and individual way. As anti-slavery advocate his services were invaluable.

Curtis was also an impressive orator, and he lectured in all the states. Miss Fowler gave many brilliant quotations from the Curtis orations, none more apt than the following:

"Patriotism is like the family inheritance. In the child it is blind devotion. In the man it is intelligent love."

Mrs. Bella Ustick gave a short but beautiful picture of Curtis, having met him in the east when visiting her mother.

The much admired Henry Van Dyke received a glowing tribute from Mrs. Lea G. Gregg.

This writer began his career at the age of seventeen, and thereafter became a man of degrees. His name is linked with that of seven colleges, the capacity of teacher as well as student. His utterance charm and freshness the great company of readers who love his masterful style. As a teacher, he speaks in trumpet tones, that arouse the imagination, the emotions and the intellect. Dr. Van Dyke was minister to the Netherlands and Luxembourg from June, 1913, to December, 1916, and he saw the transformation of surrounding countries from prosperity to scenes of war and crime. He gave up his appointment to write of the war. His stories are found in the late Scribner issues.

Mrs. Gregg closed her paper with a Van Dyke lyric, "If all the Skies."

To the great delight of club members, Mrs. Blanche McFadden presented "Barbara Freitchie," a Fitch novel, popularized by Julia Marlowe, in thorough accord with the tense situations of today, was this tragic story of '62. The love of a Southern girl for a Yankee officer brought about complications that were vividly depicted by the reader. Relief was afforded by the sympathetic comedy, showing Mrs. McFadden's ability to handle humor as well as pathos.

Adding much to the pleasure of the evening was a vocal solo by Miss Estine Kilder, who was accompanied by Miss Avonelle Timmons.

The entire program evoked unqualified praise.

Hon. and Mr. T. W. Marchant extended the always spontaneous hospitality of their beautiful suburban home at a small, but extremely pleasurable, five hundred party Tuesday night.

An elaborate supper was served at the game's close.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Daugherty, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Harper, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Peddicord, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thompson, Mrs. Arthur Shoop, Miss Florence Ustick, Mr. and Mrs. Marchant are leaving within the next few weeks for Oakland, California, to spend the winter with their son, Mr. Harris Marchant, who is located in business there, and his family.

In compliment to her niece Mrs. Fele Wallace, of Hoquiam, Wash., a charming and interesting young woman, Miss Belle DeWitt gave a much enjoyed "Knitting Party" Tuesday afternoon.

Fall flowers were in tasteful arrangement and the serving of a delicious collation was the only interruption to the progress of the busy sitters.

The guests were Mesdames Hunt, Porter, Van Winkle, Ford, Moorman, Griffith, Mitchener, Charles Briggs, John F. Evans, Misses Anne Saxton and Grace Ogle.

Nineteen young women of Miss Bertha Larrimer's Sunday School class of the Presbyterian church of Bloomsburg, surprised Mrs. Erik Englestrom, a popular member of the class, with a picnic spread Tuesday night.

Mr. Englestrom and family are leaving in the near future for their new home, a farm near Columbus, recently purchased, and the class met with the double purpose of expressing regret over Mr. Englestrom's departure and of having a jolly good time. The latter they certainly had and the spread, to which each contributed her choicest culinary success, was one which broke all records.

Mrs. V. J. Hoppess substituted for her Red Cross tea an elegant six o'clock dinner, Tuesday night. Instead of the usual eight, twelve fortunate guests were seated for courses of the season's delicacies and a delightful dinner hour.

Rose and white chrysanthemums formed regal decoration.

Mrs. Troy Junk is entertaining with a pretty Red Cross tea this afternoon.

Mrs. F. L. West is entertaining with a series of informal dinners confined to friends of her closest intimacy.

At the dinner of Tuesday evening a blue and white color scheme in harmony with the furnishings was carried out in a Candelabra of Tiffany glass with blue candles. The table decoration of Thursday will be an exquisite center piece of a small figure of Carrara Italian marble holding white chrysanthemums.

Prof. and Mrs. H. T. Hughes, entertained, Dr. Holdren and family at a prettily appointed six o'clock dinner in the private dining room of the Cherry Hotel, Sunday evening. Covers were laid for six.

Mrs. Frank Perrill and Mrs. Charles W. Lewis entertained twenty women at a charming Red Cross tea, for which Mrs. Perrill's commodious home was thrown open this afternoon.

Mrs. O. J. Moon, of New Holland, was an out of town guest.

The Ladies of the G. A. R. will entertain the B. H. Millikan Post Friday afternoon at 3:30 at Memorial Hall.

They feel that there is double reason just now that the Boys of '61 should be honored.

Miss Forest Allen has consented to read and musical numbers will be included in a patriotic program.

Rev. Lewis G. Ludwig united in marriage at the Methodist Protestant parsonage Wednesday morning at ten o'clock Miss Ruth Grove, daughter of Mr. Henry Grove of Milledgeville, and Mr. Ralph Patch, son of Mr. Charles Patch, of Greenfield, who now holds a position in the Giddings Brothers elevator at Milledgeville.

The bride looked very handsome in a tailored suit of dark blue, with hat to match, chocolate brown shoes and gloves.

Mr. and Mrs. Patch left on a trip to Springfield and Dayton. They return Saturday night to Milledgeville, where the best wishes of friends await them.

Whether it is the inspiration of the larger audiences of active and associate members combined or merely that the club women have brought revived spirit to their work, it is nevertheless freely admitted that the Cecilians are putting on splendid recitals this year—recitals that are rivaling the excellence of those of past seasons.

A large number appreciated fully the delightful program of Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Netta H. Ballard opened with the Monitor Review. Mrs. Lizzie Daugherty presented most entertainingly the opening of the Grand Opera season in New York.

Mrs. Lillie G. Davis discussed the furor created by the refusal of a German leader of a Sympathy Orchestra to play "The Star Spangled Banner" and the demand of patriotism that no orchestra can with impunity refuse to play our national airs, no matter what their own sentiments may be.

A feature was the initial presentation of Mrs. Margaret Stitt's original composition, "The Yankees are Coming." It is very well written, pulses with martial spirit and, when sung with stirring interpretation by Miss Edith Gardner, aroused the listeners to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

The following musical numbers were beautifully given:

A Permanent Organization

Fayette county has had its part to play, along with every other county in every other state of the Union, in several vitally important public movements to raise funds for war work. The last one was the movement to secure our quota for Red Triangle work of the Y. M. C. A. The county did not rise to the occasion in that movement as well as we hoped it would do, and the fault was not with the generous patriotic and prosperous people of the county. It was rather because of a lack of a proper organization to gather in the subscriptions which the people were willing to give. Looking at it from a purely business standpoint, of course, it is no more one man's business than it is another's, to do this work of gathering in, but to rely upon the bare duty wouldn't do, because there are some men who can take the initiative in these movements and many who can not. The many are just as willing, just as generous, and just as patriotic, as the few but they don't know just how to go about it and they never will. Hence the few must give of their talent as well as of their time and money.

That's a fact which we must recognize. Another fact is we can't wait until the demand is upon us to build up the necessary gathering in organization.

We should have, here in Fayette county, a standing organization, ready to take up and handle effectively every demand which comes from the national instruments operating for the general good.

The Railroads

In announcing their intention, in case a crisis is precipitated, by labor agitation or from any other cause, to place their vast properties in the hands of the President in order that the vast and necessary work of carrying the commerce of the nation may not be halted, the American rail road managers and owners have exhibited a splendid patriotic spirit.

We sometimes wonder if people fully realize the giant work which those men of finance and brains, who operate the common carriers of the land, have been doing.

Before the war in Europe the rail roads of America were so hemmed about by legislation, national and state, that they were scarcely able to keep up necessary repairs, meet fixed charges and operating expenses. Then came the war in Europe, the tremendous added commerce. The rail roads met the demand. Then came the brotherhood demands, resulting in the enactment of the Adamson law which, by shortening hours of service, increased their operating expenses tremendously. They met that burden, too, and proved equal to the task.

Then came America's entry into the war, adding still more to the burdens, the mobilization of troops and supplies, the transportation of building material and the mountain of increased commerce which must be carried. The rail roads are still staggering along and "getting by" with it all and now the spectre of labor's demand for increased wages looms formidably before them.

These men who have given their services and their time to the nation now announce that they will meet that too, if possible and if not the nation can take their property and deal, as they feel it will, justly with it. They can do no more.

It's a lesson in patriotism which should be productive of good to all those who seek to turn the present conditions to private advantage.

Going After the Spies

President Wilson on Monday issued his proclamation, to be immediately effective, barring the Germans from waterfronts, piers, cantonment sites, military depots, from the air and from the seas. All unaturalized Germans above the age of fourteen years must register and report and all are barred entirely from the districts of Columbia, the seat of the national government.

When we recall the brutal treatment of Americans by the German military machine, while the United States was yet a neutral nation, we cannot avoid the conclusion that we have been entirely too lenient in our treatment of the subjects of the Kaiser.

Just how the evil can be reached is yet a question, but that there are yet thousands of naturalized citizens in this country who are in sympathy with the Kaiser is generally acknowledged and, sooner or later, they must be looked after also.

The lines must be drawn tighter and tighter. There is no room in this nation now for disloyal people, whether they are naturalized or not or even whether they are native born or born in Germany.

The surveillance should include all. Those in sympathy with the Kaiser should be put under guard and a tab kept on them. The sheep must be separated from the goats and we have been, if anything, tardy in our division of the flock which has been enjoying the blessings of the great free American nation.

Poetry For Today

AMERICA TO FRANCE.
 Take them, O beautiful France,
 Close to your generous breast;
 Keep them, my dear dead sons,
 Honored, beloved, at rest.
 Under your glorious flag,
 Under your red, white and blue,
 Near to your gallant boys,
 Bury my laddies, too.

France, there are tears in our hearts;
 Bravely we bite back our pain.
 Proudly we try to smile
 Over our children slain;
 Over the soldiers we bore,
 Over our bravest and best,
 Over our loved and lost—
 Lo, we will stand the test!

Sister and comrade and friend,
 Lift up your heart and your head;
 Mothers of men are we,
 Mothers of noble deed!
 Liberty, Justice and Right;
 These are the price of their blood.
 Shed on your sacred soil—
 Glorious, gallant flood!

Steadfast, I come to your aid.
 Steadfast, I stand by your side,
 There where our heroes fell,
 There where our great sons died.
 Take them, then, beautiful France,
 Close to your generous breast;
 Keep them, my dear dead boys,
 Honored, beloved, at rest.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headache, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets night after a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

FRENCH SPOILED ELABORATE PLANS OF CROWN PRINCE

(Associated Press Correspondence)

French Front, Nov. 20.—One of the disappointments the German Crown Prince has suffered since the utter defeat of his great efforts to capture Verdun has just been brought to light in documents found on German prisoners. From these it appears that while the French were inflicting their smashing blow on the German troops still menacing Verdun on Aug. 20 last—when the Crown Prince not only lost some valuable ground but about 8,000 of his selected men were taken prisoners—the Germans were carefully preparing an attack on a grand scale from a point about a mile to the east of Auberville to the Souain height. French activity in front of the fortress of Verdun upset these plans completely and caused the Crown Prince to put off for an indefinite period any attempt to carry out an offensive movement in this region.

Detail of the projected attack, as a result of which the German commander had hoped to gain possession of an important tract of territory on the Champagne front, show that the chief part in the operation was to be played by the First Bavarian Division, which was brought up to full strength for the purpose and had enjoyed a period of repose and special training for the task. It was to be supported by two other divisions on its right and left flanks respectively.

The Bavarian division had received orders to prepare to furnish twelve sections of chosen shock troops, each section composed of one officer and forty-seven men. Behind these shock troops were to follow twelve "booby squads" and 12 destruction squads each composed of a temporary acting officer and thirty-two men.

The success of the intended blow at the French was so great that he had ordered twelve teams of six horses each to be ready to gallop off with the captured French cannon, while an officer and fifty men of the engineer corps were to stand by prepared to destroy gun positions and guns that could not be carried off.

It had been arranged that an extremely dense cloud of gas should be emitted over the French infantry and artillery positions during fifteen minutes before the shock units advanced to the attack. Batteries of field guns were to be stationed in immediate support of the shock troops. Airplanes were to fly low and to participate in the infantry work. The whole operation was, according to arrangement, to result in what was called in the German orders, "a summer harvest." It was fixed for August 16 and 17.

On August 16 the French troops further east in the vicinity of Verdun started a movement on their own account, for on that date they opened their artillery positions for their intended attack on August 20. The menace to the Germans holding the lines before Verdun became so great that the Crown Prince was obliged to send the two divisions that had been ordered to support the Bavarians in the attack in Champagne to the help of the troops at Verdun and to fill their places by two other divisions which had just suffered terrific losses in a Flanders engagement and which were in consequence not in the best of condition for severe fighting. At the same time even the elements were contrary to the Germans.

Later orders show that the German commander was obliged first to put attack off till September 1. Before that date arrived he had evidence in the shape of French activity and infantry raids in the Champagne sector that a surprise was out of the question. Finally the French fire became so severe that on September 10 the Crown Prince decided to give up the idea of an offensive in this section and began to withdraw to the rear his guns, troops and other material which had been intended to help in the reaping of an abundant harvest of prisoners and the gain of a considerable strip of territory.

Once more the French had been able to impose their will on enemy and to make him fight just where and when they wanted him to do so.

NEW INDEBTEDNESS ISSUE IS PLANNED BIG RETURNS CERTAIN

(By American Press)

Washington, Nov. 21.—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo announced in anticipation of huge returns next June from income taxes under the war revenue law, an issue of 4 per cent treasury certificates of indebtedness of indefinite amounts, due June 25, 1918, the final day for payment of income taxes.

This was the first action taken by the secretary to prepare the way for the great volume of receipts under the war revenue act and is in accordance with the policy adopted for liberty loan financing of issuing treasury certificates in advance of a loan. In this way the redemption of the certificates on June 25 will tend to counteract the big flow of money into the treasury and prevent the unsettling of financial conditions. The seven months' term of the new issue is the longest of any certificates yet put out, most others having been for 90 days. The interest rate is the same as for recent issue of certificates.

The amount of returns expected from the new income taxes has not been estimated closely by the internal revenue bureau, but this probably will be done within a few weeks, and the issue may be left open until subscriptions reach an amount approximating the estimates. The last issue of an indefinite amount was subscribed to the sum of $685,000,000 before being closed.

"As a means of avoiding concentration of tax payments on one date," said Secretary McAdoo's statement, "the secretary of the treasury, through the federal reserve banks, will receive subscriptions at par and accrued interest for a limited amount of treasury certificates of indebtedness, payable June 25, 1918, with interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum from Nov. 30, 1917. Subscriptions will be received at federal reserve banks. Certificates will be issued in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 and $100,000. Payment must be made upon allotment, but not before Nov. 30."

GREAT WORK OF Y IN CAMP SHERMAN

Camp Sherman draftees certainly appreciate the efforts of the Y. M. C. A. to help them out. The red triangle which is the official symbol of the Y. M. C. A., daily draws hundreds of men to the brigade and regimental houses.

One week's library circulation through the Y. M. C. A. buildings amounts to 2,796 books. The circulation among the soldiers is growing daily, for men find plenty of spare time that they can improve by reading the good books that the Y. M. C. A. provides.

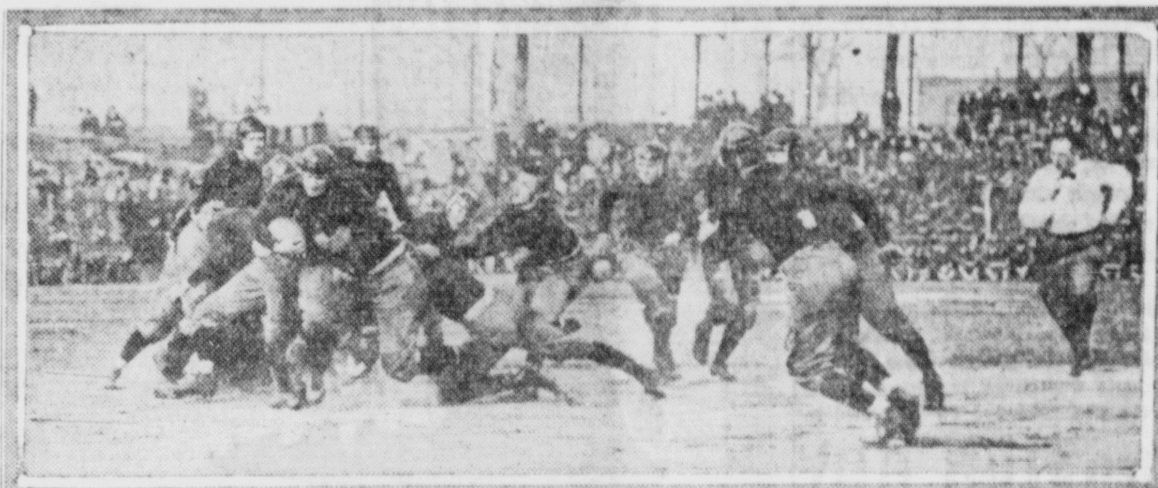

One hundred and four classes of various kinds, have been started through the educational branch of the "Red Triangle," with a total enrollment of 2,169 men. By the end of the next week it is predicted that 4,000 men will have joined the classes. For these classes, 98 teachers from the ranks are used, in addition to those provided by the Y. M. C. A.

Five orchestras have been organized by the Y. M. C. A. One "Red Triangle" club, and two scientific clubs have sprung into existence since the camp Y. M. C. A. work started, and the prospects are that others will be formed in the near future.

At the Y. M. C. A. auditorium in one week, 29,000 men attended entertainments and in the other nine buildings, 226,198 soldier boys were present for the entertainments. In one month, in the nine regimental Y. M. C. A. buildings, 994,793 soldiers were guests of the Y. M. C. A. organization. The total attendance in all the Y. M. C. A. buildings for one week amounts to 255,398.

Eighty-six classes in English, conducted under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., have a total attendance of 2,059 men, mostly foreigners. In the various French classes there are 3,000 men enrolled, as well as many officers. Sixty-three have enrolled in the stenography class.

AMERICANS SAVING LIVES OF SERBIANS MINISTER DECLARES

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Corfu, Island of Corfu, November 19.—"The funds advanced to Serbia by the United States government are saving the lives of the Serbian people," said the Serbian Minister of Public Works, Dr. Montchillo Nintchitch, who has been charged with the expenditure of the advances from the American government.

Dr. Nintchitch has been telling of the various uses the American money was put to, for the 136,000 Serbian prisoners in Germany and for interned civilians, refugees, and pensions. But now he turned to a story of the cruelty and butchery which the Bulgars are still prosecuting against the Serbs.

"Serbia has suffered more than any other country," said Dr. Nintchitch, "for not even the ruin of Belgium and the devastated regions of France can compare with what Serbia has suffered. The people of Belgium and France had seaports to go to and escape in ships, and they had railways. But the Serbian people had no ports for escape, and when the Monastir railway line was cut by the Bulgars they had no railway. So they were literally caught in a trap, with no means of egress, and except for those who made the exodus across the mountains, the whole peasant population came under the control of the Bulgarian invaders. Moreover, Belgium and France have been under the eyes of England and America, while Serbia is cut off from the world, with no knowledge of what goes on there, and no mail from there for two years."

"The Serbian peasants have been stripped of everything. All their horses, cattle and live stock has been taken, and their farm machinery has been destroyed. Men, women and children have been killed in the most revolting manner, and on the most flimsy pretext. In this the Bulgars go far beyond the Austrians for the Austrians have a trial and a formal condemnation to death. But the Bulgars have no trial or condemnation. The order to kill is given, and the soldiers are practically free to take life on their own judgment without any order."

REVOLUTIONIZE TOBACCO HANDLING

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Winston-Salem, N. C. Nov. 15.—A complete revolution in the method of handling leaf tobacco from the time it is gathered from the field until it is ready for the market has been made recently in Piedmont, North Carolina, one of the largest tobacco growing sections, to meet the increasing demand for bright tobacco used in the manufacture of cigarettes. The new method saves labor, time and fuel.

For many years the growers in this section have bent their energies toward raising heavy tobacco regardless of the quality, since practically all of the tobacco grown was used in the manufacture of chewing tobacco. They would allow the tobacco to mature in the field and when it began to turn yellow would commence gathering it, cutting the whole stock and stripping the leaves after curing by heat.

Under the new method, the leaves are stripped from stalk in the field according to the degree of ripeness. The tobacco is "topped" in the field so each stalk will have an average of about twelve leaves, so the process of stripping requires about four trips over the field, at intervals of three or four days, allowing the leaves to mature regularly and evenly.

The new process has several points of advantage, the first and main one being that the leaf is allowed to cure evenly and bright. The stripping process, which permits of speedier handling has resulted in a much shorter marketing time.

The average amount sold each year on the Winston-Salem market in recent years has been about 25 million pounds, though the unusually short crop of 1916 amounted to only about 17 million pounds. Last year the crop sold for an average of about 18 cents a pound, the largest in the history of the market. This year with more than half the crop sold, the average price paid for it to November 1 was more than 32 cents a pound.

SCHOOL EXAMINERS VIRTUALLY SWAMPED

(By Associated Press Dispatch)

Columbus, O., November 21.—The state board of school examiners is almost submerged with applications from teachers for elementary life certificates.

"We have 2,400 such applications before us," said Franklin P. Geiger, superintendent of schools at East Liverpool, who is president of the board. "Under the Terrell law, which became effective July 1st, teachers who have had 100 months of experience and one year's course of normal training, or its equivalent, are eligible for such certificates."

The board will meet December 14 and 15 to act further on applications. The certificates will be issued during the holiday meeting of the Ohio State Teachers' association, which will be held in Columbus the last week in December.

STILL DEPORTING MANY CIVILIANS

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Rotterdam, Netherlands, November 17.—The Germans continue to carry off the civilian population of the towns and villages of Flanders, according to the Nieuwe Rotterdam Courant.

Roulers is entirely evacuated. At least 2,000 inhabitants have left Courtrai and at Ostend the exodus continues. A large number of residents of Barlaere have been taken to Tourcoing, there to be set to the construction of military works of defense; and at Sleydingen all men, without distinction of rank or fortune, have been forced to labor at the laying of roads. At Puers, Bornham and Willebroeck, in the province of Antwerp, the Germans have requisitioned the people's bedding.

CHAPTER I.
The Love of Youth.

SPRING was abroad on the Isle of Man. The air had the sparkle of wine, and as Dan Mylrea trudged along the road with two books under his arm he was thinking of everything except the coming examination he was about to undergo. He looked ruefully at the volumes and would have liked to have thrown them over the hedge. But he was the son of the bishop—and he must do his best to follow his father's wish and join the ministry.

Year after year he had heard the noise of cows shaking their way through tangled shrubbery to gain a cool pool; the songs of the birds that chirped merrily from their thawing nests, and the awakened rustle of green trees.

Dan sighed as he walked toward Bishop's court, where the examination was to be held by the archdeacon.

He thought of his cousin Ewan, newly ordained, son of the Deemster, to whom the young man had been a disappointment. "If we two could change places, how happy our fathers would be," Dan murmured, half aloud. "As it is, we give no satisfaction to them. My father wants me to be a priest, and the Deemster would like nothing better than to have me for a son. It's a funny world."

Then he thought of the Deemster's daughter, Mona. She had just bidden adieu to womanhood, tender, gracious, quiet—a tall, fair haired maiden of twenty, with a drooping head and full blue eyes shaded by long, fluttering lids.

It was as ripe and beautiful womanhood as youth could dream of. Dan's eyes brightened as he imagined the lovely vision before him.

Strangely enough, he was the one pride of the Deemster's life. Disappointed in his own son, who was something of a weakling, Dan's lusty youth was the Deemster's special pride. At twenty he was a brown haired, brown eyed lad of some six feet in stature, straight and upright; he was the athlete of the island, and whenever there was a tough job of wrestling to be had or a bit of fighting to be done, there was Dan in the heart of it.

It added not a little to the Deemster's keen relish of his recklessness that it was the son of his brother, the bishop, who perpetrated it.

As for the bishop himself, he tried to shut his eyes to such follies. He meant his son to go into the church and even now was waiting the result of his examination.

The examination took place in the library of Bishop's court. Here were gathered a number of students and six or seven of the clergy.

When Dan's turn came the archdeacon tackled the unwilling candidate where he was known to be weakest.

"I suppose, sir, you think you can read your Greek Testament?"

Dan answered that he had never thought anything about it.

"I dare say, for all your modesty, you have an idea that you know enough to teach it," replied the archdeacon.

Dan hadn't an idea on the subject.

"Take down the Greek Testament and imagine that I'm your pupil," said the examiner.

Dan took the book from the bookcase and fumbled it in his fingers.

"Well, sir," began the examiner, "open at the parable of the tares."

"I am to be teacher, and you are to be pupil. That is as I understand it?"

"That is so."

As Dan stood before the table at the big volume a mischievous twinkle came into his eyes.

"Oh, we have changed places, have we?" said Dan. At that he lifted up

CARDS ARE SENT BY MAJOR ALLEN FROM ACROSS SEA

Friends in this city Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning received post cards from Major Rell G. Allen, bearing the stamp of the U. S. Army Postal Service, the stamp and signature of the censor and simply stating that he was well and had a good trip over.

One card bore the message: "Come over while the water is fine. You will enjoy it. All well. Yours in France, RELL."

The cards were mailed at the Army postoffice in France on November 3rd at 8:00 p. m. and it required just 17 days for the cards to reach this city, so that persons having friends in France must allow at least 17 days from the time they land until they hear definitely, and about 27 days from the time they sail for France before written word comes back.

Major Allen and Lieutenant Billie E. Paul crossed the Atlantic on the same vessel, and some ten days or two weeks before Capt. Hardway and Company M sailed for France, and letters from M Company are not expected before next week.

Letters from Lieutenant Billie E. Paul were received Wednesday morning.

REVIEWS WORK OF STATE DEPARTMENT

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Columbus, O., November 21.—A review of the work of the state's department of justice during the fiscal year which ended June 30, is given by Attorney General McGhee in his first annual report, which has just been made to Governor Cox.

The report covers the operation of the department during the last six months of the tenure of Attorney General Turner and the first six months of McGhee's term.

During the year the department handled 330 actions in the common pleas and higher courts and also handled 320 criminal prosecutions for misdemeanors and civil suits in courts below the common pleas. The collections made by the claims department during the year amounted to $304,047.71, of which $140,479.62 was from domestic and foreign corporations and public utilities delinquent in payment of taxes.

Because the legislature will not meet in regular session until after another annual report is required of the department, and in view of the fact that no call has been made for a special session this winter, Attorney General McGhee makes no recommendations for changes in legislation.

CHILLICOTHE WILL PLAY HERE SATURDAY

When Chillicothe High comes to this city for a return game, Saturday afternoon of this week, Washington will endeavor to at least duplicate the 13 to 0 defeat handed the boys from "ye ancient capital" when the teams met in Chillicothe a few weeks ago.

The line-up of Washington's eleven has not been announced by Coach Pleyley, but R. Willis may be out and Weaver will not be in the line-up, so that the second strong men will get a chance. Rearden will, in all probability, be picked for center. He has played a consistent game on several occasions, and can be depended on to deliver the goods. Coach Pleyley has the choice of several good men for Willis' place.

NOTHING DOING UNTIL CONDITIONS ARE MORE SETTLED

(By American Press)

Washington, Nov. 21.—The American government will not permit shipments of supplies to go from the United States to Russia until the situation in that country clears.

The government, before allowing the export of goods already on the docks, wants to know into whose hands they will fall on their arrival.

The cessation of shipments is temporary only if a stable government is formed which the United States can recognize. If the Bolsheviks gain control and pursue their program calling for a peace with Germany the embargo will be permanent. A protracted civil war also would work to keep the embargo tight, as the United States would fear that supplies might go to the Bolshevik faction.

The provisional Russian government was given credits amounting in all to $325,000,000, of which $191,000,000 already has been advanced. Much of this money has been spent for supplies now awaiting shipment, and the Russians have been given vessels for its transport. Shipments will be held up by denial of bunker coal to the ships.

Conditions in Russia still are far from clear. The state department had no additional dispatches from Ambassador Francis at Petrograd, but unofficial messages coming from Sweden were that General Kalendines, head of the Don Cossacks, who held the master hand in Russia through domination of the country's coal and bread supply in the Don Cossack region, was marching with an army on Voronez, 200 miles south of Moscow.

Passengers arriving at the Swedish frontier from Russia also reported that soldiers were parading the Petrograd streets bearing banners demanding a constitutional assembly of all Russia and declaring that the Bolshevik regime was more tyrannical than that of Nicholas.

A Berlin unofficial dispatch stated that the new Russian government had declared it has "left the ranks of the belligerents and is ready to conclude a separate peace."

The only official dispatch reaching the state department states that Russia announced that John F. Stevens, head of the American railway commission to Russia, had left Petrograd for Vladivostok in connection with his work of rehabilitating the Russian railway system.

FESS SEES DRY VICTORY IN THE U. S. CONGRESS

Declares Recent Election in Ohio Gives Drys 17 Out of 22 Votes and Indicates that Knock Out Blow for Booze Is Near.

The following interesting article on what will probably happen in Congress as result of the recent election on prohibition in Ohio, is written by Congressman S. D. Fess, of this, the Seventh Congressional District:

"Owing to the character of the liquor campaign we must not relax our efforts on behalf of sobriety until state and nation have written the indictment of an aroused public conscience against this conscienceless evil so emphatically that these interests will hasten to seek shelter. It is a reason for shame when a state like Ohio, which has stood in the front of all reforms in the past should be compelled to hang her head because of liquor influences demanding the right of way to continue its course of suffering at the very moment when all the world has driven the demon of rum from pillar to post. In the face of a world crisis we witness these interests clamoring for a continuance of their wicked wastefulness, not only of food and feed articles, but of human energy and life.

Here in Ohio seven-eighths of our counties, or 77 out of 88, have banished the evil so far as the voice of the voters can go. Only a few beleared spots on the map are left, one or two whiskey soaked and rum ridden centers, whence no hope save the nation's edict, which will not be long withheld.

I have just looked over the vote by congressional districts with a view of indicating the complexion of Ohio's congressional delegation in the vote on the federal amendment, which will come in January. You will recall after the senate capitulated to the liquor interests by exempting beer from war prohibition such an avalanche of pro-temperance rolled in upon that body for its surrender that the senate to square itself immediately followed the surrender by a vote on the Federal amendment, which was carried by more than two-thirds majority. That measure awaits the vote of the House. Had this vote been ordered in the special session and before Ohio had spoken, according to the line up in previous contests at least 13 out of 22 Ohio congressmen would have gone against the amendment.

The edict of the State election day will compel some interesting performances since the defense of members against the charge of voting for liquor interests against the moral demands of the country is invariably the desire to obey the majority of the voters of the district.

If that political play will operate now a study of the district vote will be interesting. The fourth district depended upon by the wets gave 3,456 majority for the drys. The three wet counties, Auglaize, Mercer and Shelby, gave wet majorities ranging from 54 to 610 in Auglaize while dry counties, Allen, Darke and Miami gave dry majorities ranging from 1112 in Darke to 1754 in Miami. Even Allen gave a dry majority of 1675.

The fifth district gave a dry majority of 4195 and every county in the district, seven in number, went dry. The eighth district invariably wet gave the drys a majority of 6363 and carried every one of the six counties. The 11th district gave a dry majority of 4901 carrying every one of the five counties.

The 12th district will enable the capital's congressmen to vote his wishes and line up with the cause of temperance. This reversal is backed by the handsome majority of over 2,000 votes.

The 14th district ranged herself in the dry column with over 9,000 majority which will almost certainly determine that vote on the amendment.

The 17th district has ordered a change of front in Washington by a majority of 7,759.

The first and second districts (Cincinnati) will remain in the wet column as will the third (Hamilton and Dayton) if the vote of the districts are obeyed. The 9th (Toledo) gave a reduced wet majority of only 5,000 and could ordinarily be placed in the wet column on vote in congress, but the independent character of the congressman, General Sherwood, will give the wet leaders much concern over this vote.

The 13th went wet by only 480. This district will surely go for the dry amendment.

The 20th and 21st (Cleveland) will most probably be ranged with the wets but the 21st will be with the drys on the amendment vote.

The 6th (Kearns), 7th (Fess), 10th (Switzer), 15th (White), 16th (McCough), 18th, (Hollingsworth) and 19th (Cooper) have always stood for temperance in past struggles and can be depended upon in the coming struggle. As it now appears the wets cannot depend with certainty upon more than 5 out of 22 districts while the drys are sure of 14 and morally certain of 17, including three with small wet majorities, but so reduced that a complete reversal is certain in the near future.

There is not the slightest doubt of the eradication of this palpable evil. If we have not completely done it in Ohio in this late vote it is merely deferring it to a day later.

Already 27 states have spoken, not including Ohio, only five more are needed to extend the prohibition over the nation. It is inconceivable that these states will not be forthcoming soon. This will be a climax to a most wonderful list of achievements, begun when the Webb-Kenyon bill for bade shipping of wet goods to dry states. That placed the sanction of the Federal government back of the state, which had driven this evil from within its borders. It was first township prohibition, then municipality, then county and then state, then interstate. The supreme court sustained the Webb Law. Then the Reed amendment, which was fathered by the wets, introduced bone dry legislation. While this was a bluff it was quickly called and written into the law. Then came the abolition of the saloon in the District of Columbia, which made the Capital dry after November 1st. Then came the war prohibition against the use of any grains for alcoholic beverages. The House extended this to include all distilled and malted liquors, but the Senate exempted beers and light wines, but gave the President power to extend the decree to them in case, in his judgment, it should be done. Immediately after this vote in the Senate that body put the federal amendment on its passage and passed it by a large vote. It now awaits House action which will not be long deferred. This action will relieve the people of such liquor strongholds as Cincinnati, by doing for them what they cannot do for themselves."

AMERICAN CHAPLAIN WRITES TO EMPEROR

In a recent article on "The Chaplain in War," published in Leslie's Weekly, of the experience of Chaplain McCabe, well known in this city is recalled.

Chaplain McCabe had a sister living in the neighboring town of Jamestown and frequently visited her at the time when Mr. C. F. Ballard's home was made there a number of years ago.

He was a warm friend of Mr. Ballard and also of Mrs. Sharp Davies, and has renewed their acquaintance in later years during visits in this city.

The article reads:

"It was an American chaplain that once told a piece of his mind to the Emperor of Germany. I should correct that—he wrote it. But that does not matter. It's the sentiment the expressed to which I wish to call attention. When a young man the Emperor made a speech in which he approved of duels, declaring that they made men brave. Chaplain McCabe wrote and told the Emperor of the 122nd Ohio: "Not one of these boys ever fought a duel," he said. "The American soldier needs nothing brutal to make him brave." And he continued: "Call the boys from the farm, the office, the shop; unfurl the old flag above their heads and let the band strike up the music, and in six months you have a conquering regiment of soldiers of the Republic. That is the kind of regiment we have in the 122nd Ohio."

The German Emperor today is accompanied by a chaplain wherever he goes. With him goes the imperial banner, orange, black embroidered with a cross and bearing the words "God with us." He is religious. But what a world of difference between his kind of religion and Chaplain McCabe's! Both are sincere in their beliefs, let us agree, but the one sees only God of War, while the other has penetrated into the heart of religion and has learned that to love your neighbor as yourself is the center and circumference of the Great Commandment.
